

ON THE ROAD AGAIN - NEW JERSEY & OREGON

I'm looking forward to a couple of trips on the near horizon. First New Jersey... I have just two seats left for a brand new workshop in Linwood, New Jersey on Saturday, April 8 -

Spiritual Support & Guidance

Spiritual support is an obvious, felt-sense knowing that you are connected to a conscious intelligence. Spiritual guidance provides direction and illumination as you navigate life's journey. We'll focus on these two aspects – and their very practical uses in daily life. Strengthen your receptivity, sense of connection, and trust.

Also, I still have a few spots left for In Person Private Sessions in NJ on April 11, 12, and 13. Grab 'em fast!

I have another new workshop in Bend, Oregon on Saturday, May 6 -

INTUITIVE TIDBITS

> Intuition is simply the ability to gain direct knowledge - without the rational / logical mind. It's the ability to understand or immediately know something based on feelings rather than facts. You might physically feel, see, sense, hear, smell or even taste information intuitively. Or some people just know by receiving that "Aha!" moment.

> Intuition is given to all. Everyone is intuitive - it's an aspect of being human. We each have different ways of receiving, and some are more sensitive than others. The more sensitive you are, the more access you'll have. Those with certain types of sensitivity can access volumes of energetic material. And anyone can learn to develop whatever gifts they've been given.

> Intuition grows with use. If you have a habit of ignoring or denying it, your intuition will be sporadic and unreliable. But if you honor and utilize it, your intuition will become a reliable and clear resource, a wonderfully valuable branch of intelligence.

ANIMAL TALES

ANIMAL COMPANION SOUL MATE? YES!!

Marty was a German Shepherd mix. Robert first consulted with me when he rescued Marty. At the time, Marty was only two – and he was seriously injured from being hit by a car. Marty belonged to a couple who didn't expect him to survive the injuries, and they thought that even if he did, he wouldn't be much of a dog. So they decided to put him down.

Robert had a friend who worked at the vet hospital where Marty was taken. The moment he heard about Marty, "It was urgent I had to go get him – like he was part of my bones." Now Robert had numerous dogs over his lifetime, but he'd never felt this before. Just hearing Marty's story made Robert's heart race, and – sight unseen – he announced he was adopting Marty. He told his friend to tell the doctor to do whatever they had to, and he would cover all costs.

Shortly after that rather impulsive move, Robert called me. He said it was weird for him to feel so strongly that he had to "save my dog" when they had not even met yet. But when he brought Marty home the feeling was as if they had always [\[MORE...\]](#)
